

Seek For Bar To Military On Heavenly Body

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. officials said today the prospects for negotiating a treaty with the Soviet Union to ban use of the moon and other heavenly bodies for military purposes appear to be good — in spite of tension between Moscow and Washington over the Viet Nam war.

The two countries are in agreement on the need for such a treaty, which also would provide for international cooperation in exploring the moon and other celestial bodies.

President Johnson had proposed May 7 that the United Nations should start early discussions of a moon treaty. The Soviet Union made what seemed to be a parallel proposal to U. N. Secretary-General U. Thant Monday. It was disclosed in New York Tuesday by Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko.

The Johnson Administration welcomed the Soviet call for action and said the subject is so important that work on it should begin "without delay."

In the first comment here on the Fedorenko disclosure, White House deputy press secretary Robert H. Fleming said: "It appears to support the stand taken by the President in the May 7 statement."

A State Department spokesman said "we are encouraged by the apparently affirmative interest shown by the Soviet government in President Johnson's proposal. We believe that work on a celestial bodies treaty should begin without delay, and it is for that reason that we asked for an early meeting of the United Nations Outer Space Committee."

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey added: "We note that the Soviet letter to the secretary general speaks of having this put on the agenda of the General Assembly next fall. We see no reason to wait until then to begin this important work."

U. S. officials said that, while they would have to make a detailed analysis of the Soviet proposal, they considered that it exactly paralleled Johnson's May 7 proposal.

The President, in his May 7 proposal, said the moon and other celestial bodies should be "free for exploration and use by all countries" and "no country should be permitted to advance a claim of sovereignty."

Fedorenko told a news conference Tuesday that the Soviet Union had been seeking since 1958 a treaty which would, in effect, internationalize the moon and other celestial bodies. He blamed the United States for failure to get such a pact before this.

"The position of the United States in this matter was not always conducive to a positive solution," he said, "and this is, of course, one of the reasons for which the question has not yet been fully solved."

17 Million Americans Signed For Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Social Security Administration reported today that more than 17 million Americans — 90 per cent of those eligible — paid $3 each to sign up for extra medicare benefits. The deadline for enrolling was midnight Tuesday.

Commissioner Robert M. Ball credited the high enrollment to a massive campaign to inform people who were 65 by last Jan. 1 of their rights to become eligible for doctor bill benefits. In addition to hospital benefits, on July 1.

Ball, who said he had expected about 80 per cent of those eligible would enroll, termed the 90 per cent turnout remarkable.

The deadline was extended two months to midnight May 31 by Congress at the request of President Johnson.

The benefits of both the medical care insurance and the basic hospital insurance under medicare became effective July 1 and the monthly medical care insurance fee of $3 per person also begins to apply on that date.

For persons who became 65 since March 1 an enrollment period of seven months is provided. It begins three months before a person turns 65.

If a person fails to enroll as soon as he is eligible, the monthly insurance fee is increased 10 per cent for each full year that passes after the end of the initial period and before enrollment.

Indonesia And Malaysia End 3-Year Dispute

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Indonesia and Malaysia formally agreed today to end a dispute opened in 1963 by President Sukarno in his "crush Malaysia" campaign. They decided to work toward the establishment of diplomatic relations.

Sukarno launched his campaign against the Malaysian Federation when it was formed in September 1963 of the former British colonies of Malaya, Singapore and the Borneo states of Sarawak and North Borneo (now Sabah). Singapore has since dropped out.

The end came after three days of meetings between Deputy Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Razak of Malaysia and Foreign Minister Adam Malik of Indonesia. Malik had indicated before the meetings that the campaign had put Indonesia under economic and financial strain.

Sukarno objected to the federation, charging that it was really a British plot to maintain a colonial hold in this part of the world and that Malaysia was formed to strangle Indonesia.

May Compose CIA Squabble

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders agreed today to try to work out a compromise and avoid an open floor fight over supervision of the top - secret Central Intelligence Agency.

With a head-on clash scheduled in the Senate today, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana called in opposing forces to arrange a truce.

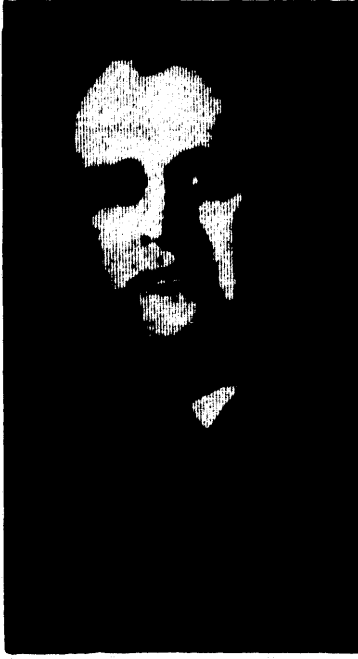

Afterward, Mansfield announced that the Senate debate over activities of the spy agency will not take place this week. He added that a compromise could be worked out.

Sitting in on the peace parley were chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the present select seven - member panel which oversees the CIA; chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which wants three of its members added to the Senate monitoring group; and Sens. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., and John Stennis, D-Miss.

McCarthy is author of a resolution, readied for introduction, to add the foreign relations members to the supervisory panel. Fulbright backs him.

Expect Orderly Dominican Vote

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Dominicans voted today for the first time in nearly four years in general elections expected to be relatively peaceful. The aftermath was doubtful.

Slightly more than a million men and women were eligible to cast ballots during the 12 hours the polls were to be open. Unless there is a landslide for one of the presidential candidates, definite results are not expected until late Thursday.

A close race is anticipated between the major presidential contenders, Juan Bosch, leader of the Dominican Revolutionary party, and Joaquin Balaguer, of the Reformist party.

A third candidate, Rafael F. Bonnelly, is considered out of the running. He is backed by a coalition of tiny conservative parties called the Movement of National Integration.

All three are former presidents, but Bosch is the only one who got the office by a democratic election. He was ousted by the military in September 1963 after seven months in office.

Also at stake in the election are all seats in the two-house national Congress and all elective municipal offices.

The voting gives the people a chance to pass judgment on the April 1965 revolution, launched to bring Bosch back from exile and restore him to the presidency. His supporters claim American intervention thwarted a massive popular uprising that would have restored Bosch.

Opponents of Bosch and of the revolution contend that the revolt was only a local power grab that never extended beyond Santo Domingo.

Balaguer and his Reformist party were not involved in the revolt. He and most of the party leadership were in exile, but most of the revolt's opponents have now rallied behind them.

Deadline Tonight For Draft Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP) — Midnight tonight is the deadline for mailing applications to take the fourth and last Selective Service college qualification test.

The test will be given June 24. A spokesman at the national draft headquarters said today no figures had been received here on the number of applications being received by Science Research Associates in Chicago.

The Chicago firm is handling the test series on a contract basis.

Three test sessions have already been held. Preparations are being made to hold the fourth session in as many of 1,200 test centers throughout the nation as necessary, the spokesman said.

Scores made by college students, high school seniors graduating this year, and other registrants who intend to seek an occupational deferment next fall on grounds they are students may be considered by draft boards in classifying the registrants.

Humphrey Raps Selfish Negro In Upper-Class

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey launched the already controversial White House Conference on Civil Rights today by sharply criticizing upper-class Negroes who ignore the plight of their less fortunate fellow Negroes.

Keynoting the conference "to fulfill these rights," Humphrey said in a prepared address: there are "Negro Americans who appear more concerned about their own positions than about the plight of those less fortunate, less articulate members of their race."

"Their interest is not in securing the fruits of equality for their brothers, but in preserving their own personal good fortune and accomplishments," the vice president said.

The extraordinary two-day conference of some 2,400 influential citizens opened under a cloud of charges that the administration has rigged its outcome.

The conferees were to discuss a 100-page document prepared by the conference planning council that proposes a multi-billion-dollar program of action to bring the Negro into full equality in housing, jobs, education and the administration of justice.

There was no plan for the conferees to vote on any of the recommendations — and this became a point of contention even before the conference got under way.

Youth Held In Club Shooting

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Ronald Spates, 19, was held under $10,000 bond today after demanding examination on a charge of felonious assault in the Monday night gunshot wounding of James Hodges, 22, at a club for teenagers. Hodges was reported in critical condition under care for a wound of the face. Spates was arrested Tuesday. His examination was set for June 8, the same date of his hearing on a charge of purse snatching which stems from a woman's complaint of losing $1,200 to an assailant March 29.

U.N. Conference On Copper To Be Held In December

WASHINGTON (AP) — An international conference on copper under the auspices of the United Nations will be held in December, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield announced Tuesday.

The Montana Senator made public a letter from President Johnson saying the U.N. conference "may be the best forum for governments to explore the problems of copper and any feasible steps that might be taken to deal with these problems."

Mansfield expressed hope in a statement "that out of the U.N. meeting would come the creation of a copper study group for the purpose of stabilizing production, price and employment so that in that way the copper industry would not be subject to the ups and downs which have

Buddhists And Ky Continue In Political Talks

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Buddhist leaders resumed their peace talks with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military junta today despite a mysterious grenade attack on one of the leading monks involved.

While the resumption of the negotiations seemed a hopeful sign in South Viet Nam's political crisis, rampaging student mobs sacked and burned the deserted U.S. consulate and at least three other buildings in the rebellious Buddhist stronghold of Hue.

In the war, U.S. pilots dodged half a dozen Soviet missiles in a near-record day of attack on North Viet Nam but conventional groundfire knocked down three American jets. The assault on the Communist north included the heaviest single raid of the war, an 18-missile strike against the Yen Bai storage complex along the Red River 80 miles northwest of Hanoi.

An Air Force spokesman said more planes were sent against Yen Bai than any other individual target since the raids on the north began Feb. 7, 1965. He reported 25 anti-aircraft gun pits and 72 buildings destroyed and 44 buildings badly damaged.

The resumption of the negotiations in Saigon's Gia Long Palace between the junta and monks of the powerful Buddhist Institute followed a public declaration by Ky to carry out his promise to add civilians to the 10-man ruling director.

In a statement broadcast by Saigon radio, Ky was quoted as saying: "The government of Viet Nam has decided to enlarge the National Leadership Committee to include representatives of mass organizations, religions and political parties."

Surveyor Due On Moon Tomorrow

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 1, streaking toward a landing on the moon Thursday morning, carries not only a camera but this nation's hopes of making the first touchdown gentle enough for men to survive.

Surveyor is due to settle on a broad equatorial plain at 2:17 a.m. EDT and begin radioing pictures which will help scientists pick the safest areas for Apollo astronaut landings later in this decade.

DeValera Win Sighted Today

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Eamon de Valera was a strong sentimental and political favorite today to win a second term as president of the Irish Republic in a "kid gloves" election.

The 83-year-old statesman virtually sat out the campaign and let his supporters take the stump making "Dev the man" the sole issue to cap a career that began with his fight against the British to help found the republic.

Challenger Thomas Francis Kevin O'Higgins, a 49-year-old Dublin lawyer and member of a distinguished family in Ireland's war of independence, wound up a barnstorming campaign in what his wife described as a "very hopeful" mood.

De Valera was rated a 6 to 1 favorite by the bookmakers.

Space Flight Is Postponed 'Til Friday Morning

CANCEL MISSION CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 9 mission was canceled today because of last-minute problems with the spacecraft. The flight was rescheduled for Friday morning at 9:39 a.m. EDT.

If the Gemini spacecraft cannot be launched early Friday morning, technicians will try again at 11:15 a.m. EDT.

The trouble with the Gemini today was a computer in the spacecraft which would not accept commands.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A barrel-shaped satellite sailed into orbit today and became a high-flying, 17,500-mile-an-hour target for the Gemini 9 astronauts.

A fiery Atlas rocket propelled the satellite into a circular path 185 miles out from earth at 10 a.m. EDT after a nearly flawless countdown.

However, there was a possibility that a shroud covering the payload did not separate. If so, it might make the satellite ineffective as a docking target.

The flight control center said it received an indication of shroud separation when a light blinked on in ground tracking equipment. However, the light went out shortly afterward.

If the shroud had separated, the light should have stayed on. The shroud, made of fiberglass material, is designed to protect the satellite from buffeting and heat during the blast-off.

It was to have separated at the time the Atlas engines cut off and kicked the satellite loose.

The Gemini 9 count ticked on toward a planned 12:38 p.m. liftoff.

The first goal of the three-day mission of spacemen Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan was to catch the target after a 75,000-mile pursuit and link up with it high above the Pacific in late afternoon.

Mission director William C. Schneider said a half-hour after launch there was a "high probability" that the shroud had fallen away when the signal light came on.

During the chase, they were to execute orbit-shifting maneuvers similar to those which Apollo astronauts must make in leaving the moon for return trips to earth.

Informed that the target was in orbit, Stafford called out, "Good show, Len" to Len Schull, test conductor in the Atlas blockhouse.

Schull then said: "We knew if you stuck there long enough, we'd get you a good one."

Frustrated on May 17 by rocket failure, Stafford and Cernan awoke today fit and ready for a second attempt to carry out the most difficult of U.S. space assignments.

The highlight of the exciting journey was to come Thursday, when Cernan leaves the spacecraft and for nearly 2½ hours becomes a human satellite hurtling through space at fantastic speed.

As the target satellite whirled into orbit, the U.S. Surveyor spacecraft was 195,000 miles from earth, streaking toward the moon on another vital mission.

Traveling at 2,430 miles an hour, Surveyor was 48,200 miles from the moon's Sea of Storms, where it was aimed for a soft-landing early Thursday morning.

Awakened at 8:11 a.m., the astronauts sailed through a final physical examination, were pronounced in great shape for the mission, and ate the traditional hearty breakfast of steak and eggs.

Technicians Tuesday night cleared up a minor electrical problem in the Atlas and the green light was flashed to start the countdown.

To a greater degree than ever before Stafford and Cernan will exploit the techniques of rendezvous, docking and space walking pioneered on earlier Gemini missions.

More Builders' Unions Sign Up

By The Associated Press

Carpenters union members in south central Michigan approved a two year pact with contractors Tuesday night while carpenters in the Saginaw Valley were turning down a management offer.

A settlement based on four separate increases covering the cities of Lansing, Jackson, Adrian and Ann Arbor was approved by the South Central Carpenters District Council, said Wesley G. Jeltema, manager of the Michigan Chapter of Associated General Contractors.

Jeltema said the contract called for a $1.28 hourly package spread over two years in Adrian, $1.12 in Ann Arbor; $1.24 in Jackson and $1.23 in Lansing. The increase will boost carpenters' hourly wages to $3.43 an hour in Adrian; $3.59 in Ann Arbor; and $3.47 an hour in Jackson and Lansing, Jeltema said.

Some 1,500 carpenters, who struck May 1 tying up millions of dollars in industrial, commercial and institutional construction, were expected to begin returning to work today, the management official said.

The Saginaw Valley Carpenters District Council turned down 385-219 a contractors offer of a $1.15 hourly package increase spread over two years, said Leo A. Gallardi, council secretary-treasurer.

Kiwanis Club Hears Pastor

An interesting and informative talk about Ethiopia illustrated by color slides, was presented to the Kiwanis Club at its noon meeting by the Rev. Roger Patrow, pastor of the Immanuel Lutheran Church.

Rev. Patrow spent three and one-half years in mission work with the American Lutheran Church in Ethiopia. He explained that the chief work of the missionaries, regardless of denomination, is to bring Jesus Christ to the people, both by word and action.

He reported that a common failing of people in both missionary work and Peace Corp work is trying to make Americans of the people. This will not work because of the deep pride these people hold for their own heritage, he said.

Ethiopia has a history of over 3,000 years of independence. It is believed that the people are descendants of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba. The country is the largest Christian country in either Africa or Asia. It is called "an island of Christianity in a sea of Mohammedanism."

The topography of the country is very mountainous, making travel in some sectors very difficult, he reported.

William Leiper Marks

50 Years In Same Bank

William L. Leiper today marks 50 years of banking with the same bank, the Escanaba National.

As he starts his second half-century as a banker Leiper says, "I hope it goes as well as the first. I feel good and it certainly doesn't seem like 50, but it's there."

"My first job with the Escanaba National was as bookkeeper and I started on June 1, 1916. I had graduated from Escanaba High School on June 1, 1912 and had worked for the Chicago & North Western Railway as a clerk and caller and in the freight house. I was there when Matt Smith Sr. called me to come to work in the bank. Mr. Smith was the father of our bank president of today, Stack Smith, and the grandfather of our executive vice-president, Matt Smith."

"I was born in 1885 in Menominee and my family moved to Escanaba when I was 5 years old."

"The Escanaba National was in the building later occupied by the Hoyer Bakery in the 600 block on Ludington. The building is now the office of Goodman Division of the Calumet & Hecla, Inc."

"The bank moved to its new building on Ludington and 8th St. in 1918."

"I went through the crash and banking holiday. No banker who went through that will ever forget it."

"When I started we were posting all the checking accounts by hand and now it's all machine process. Things are moving so fast it's hard to keep track of them. Today we're going on the computer with a hookup with Green Bay. It's getting to be all automation."

"It's so much better and so much faster. Every year there's something new. If we were to have to go back to old hand methods it would take an awful lot of people and be extravagantly expensive. In the old days everyone didn't have a checking account."

"Leiper and Miss Harriet Shepherd of Escanaba were wed in Escanaba in 1927. They have two daughters, both married, Mrs. Izar (Carol) Martinez of Albuquerque, N.M., and Ronald (Betty) Maitland of Elverson, Pa., and six grandchildren."

Leiper is assistant cashier at the Escanaba National Bank, which will honor him soon at a testimonial dinner marking his 50 year milestone in banking.

In the week of June 14 workshop meetings beginning at 8 a. m., will be held at the Homestead Hall, St. Ignace, Tuesday, June 14; at the University Center, Marquette, Wednesday, June 15; and at Gladstone High School, Thursday, June 16.

Area Adventists To Join In World Offering

Members of the Escanaba Seventh-day Adventist Church will join other Adventists around the world in giving a million dollars for world evangelism this Saturday, June 4.

The special church offering, taken once every four years, will be devoted exclusively to public evangelism throughout the world, according to John Erhard, pastor of the local Seventh-day Adventist Church.

The offering will precede the opening of the church's 50th world conference in Detroit on June 16.

The million-dollar World Evangelism Offering is scheduled to help focus the attention of members on the worldwide mission of Christianity in general and the Adventist Church in particular, according to Pastor Erhard. The Church has an organized ministry in 189 countries.

Pastor Erhard and family of Escanaba will leave for Detroit June 12 to attend the World Conference.

Ruppe Calls For Support Of GIs In Viet Nam

Philip Ruppe, a veteran of Navy service, told the Memorial Day assemblage at the Bark River Cemetery that Americans have given their lives for their country in defense of freedom.

"Those of us who are left here to be reminded of it by ceremonies are those of the day in cemeteries across the nation."

"With 250,000 of our men in South Viet Nam now we owe our complete and unqualified support to them," said Ruppe. "We are there for honorable reasons and not gain and we must join them in determination to win and to bring the war to a just end."

Ruppe, a Republican candidate for Congress in the 11th District, was critical of America's allies for not supporting her in the war in Viet Nam. He said that generally speaking the nation has worked hard for the cause of freedom and betterment of life in the world.

He was introduced by fellow Legionnaire Leo Knauf and a Legion luncheon at the Community Building followed with Legion Commander Hector Larson in charge. The Bark River-Harris High School Band played at the cemetery program.

'Bad' Building Law Is Fought

A meeting whose purpose is to fight a code of state licensing of residential builders will be held in Escanaba at the Junior High School at 8 p. m. Sunday, June 15.

The meeting is sponsored by the Delta County Heating & Plumbing Association and its principal speaker will be State Senator Thomas Schweigert (R-Petoskey) who sponsored the bill that won delay in the effective date of the new law to Sept. 1.

Senator Schweigert will be accompanied to Escanaba by a member of the Board whose responsibility it is to administer the new—and highly unpopular—law licensing residential builders.

Marvin Lucas, president of the Delta County Heating & Plumbing Association, said that building contractors from all parts of Northern Michigan are expected to attend the Escanaba meeting.

Meetings in the past, at which the builders expressed their indignation over the new law, won a delay. Now they are hopeful of having the legislature wipe the law off the books.

Powers-Spalding Schools Bid But

Nadeau To Stephenson

Menominee County is in the throes of a school district reorganization effort which at present appears likely to hook the Nadeau Township School District onto the Stephenson Consolidated School District, which will comprise Stephenson, Mellen, Lake, Holmes, Daggett, Cedarville and Ingallston townships.

The Carney-Nadeau Board of Education voted May 10 to annex its school district to Stephenson. Both districts are awaiting approval of an election on the merger which is expected from the State Department of Education this week.

Carney-Nadeau's options were to go to Stephenson or to go to Powers-Spalding as Menominee County moves to reduce its school districts and enlarge them to provide better high school programs.

Board Decision
The Carney-Nadeau board said it was influenced by the larger enrollment to the south, 1,837 compared with the 1,129 that would result if Carney-Nadeau were to join Powers-Spalding and Hermansville in a new district to the north. Taxed assessed valuation is also greater, $17.6 million compared with $9.7 million.

Carney-Nadeau votes June 13 on continuation of its present 4 mill levy for operation. If at a later election voters approve the annexation to Stephenson, the millage would be reduced to 1 1/2 mills, the Stephenson operational millage. At Powers-Spalding the Nadeau district would face a current 4 mills for operation and a proposal for increase to 6 1/2 mills to be voted on June 13.

The Carney-Nadeau board cited that Stephenson has the only Menominee County high school outside the City of Menominee accredited by the North Central Association and that Stephenson has the only Smith-Hughes Art shop program in the county.

Reluctance To Change
"It is not the desire of the Carney-Nadeau Board to disregard the needs and desires of our friends to the north."

VISTA Workers To Serve U. P. Indians

Two VISTA Volunteers will be assigned to live and work among the Keweenaw Bay Indians near Baraga, says Congressman Raymond F. Cleveland. Members of the volunteer corps of the war on poverty ("Volunteers In Service To America"), they will be under the supervision of the Keweenaw Bay Tribal Council, which requested volunteers.

Duties of the Volunteers, who will arrive within a few months, will be to help the tribal council improve its efficiency, inform the Indians about opportunities available through Indian and local agencies, help Indians develop a project for improved housing; and establish special educational and other programs. The Baraga Volunteers will be among 45 serving in seven Michigan anti-poverty projects.

the board stated. "They have several choices. Their mileage to Escanaba is 22, Norway 18 and Stephenson 20. Hopefully, at some future date they will consider a larger consolidation involving all of the Menominee County schools outside the City of Menominee."

"We can understand the reluctance of our people to give up our little high school in favor of a larger consolidation, but there comes a time when change must be made and it appears that this is the time."

The Powers-Spalding Board of Education announced Tuesday that Powers-Spalding "is not interested in annexation—that is, having Carney-Nadeau, or for that matter Hermansville, join its already existing school district. Powers-Spalding favors 'consolidation'—that is, the union of Hermansville, Carney-Nadeau, Powers-Spalding and perhaps at a later date Bark River-Harris into a single unit—a completely new school district with a new name, a new board of education, and, if necessary, new schools."

Millage Dissolved
"With the proposed consolidation of the three school districts, the existing voted operational millage in each district would be dissolved and new millage for the whole area would be voted."

Mead Honoree Campus Artist

John Colt

MARQUETTE—John N. Colt, artist, teacher, and designer, and recipient of two Ford Foundation awards, will be artist-in-residence during Northern Michigan University's six-week summer session, June 27 - Aug. 5.

Colt, an associate professor of art at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, received his first Ford Foundation purchase award in 1962 for the Whitney Museum of Art, New York, and his second in 1964 for painting "Woods Heart" for the Walker Art Center, Minneapolis. Born in Madison, Wis., Colt master's degrees in art from the University of Wisconsin. He has taught art in Canada and Australia, and at the University of Southern California and Milwaukee's Layton School of Art among others.

Colt, who was commissioned to create a mural for Marquette University's Teatro Maria in 1958, has painted in Mexico, Canada, Haiti and the Bahamas. His work is represented in numerous permanent collections including the Whitney Museum, New York; Munson - Williams - Proctor Institute, Utica, N. Y.; Grand Rapids (Mich.) Museum Le Centre D'Art, Port Au Prince, Haiti; and Robert Q. Lewis, New York.

He was one of six mid-west painters invited to exhibit his paintings in Art Across America. The exhibit currently on tour is sponsored by the Mead Corp., Dayton, O.

"Powers-Spalding favors three high school districts for Menominee County—one in the north, one in the south and one in the central section. However, as Carney-Nadeau states, if at some future date the State considers a larger consolidation involving all of the Menominee County schools outside the City of Menominee, we in Powers-Spalding believe it would be more practical to have one of the consolidated high schools located in the northern area."

"There is no reason why our consolidated school cannot become accredited by the North Central Association and if the people desire a Smith-Hughes shop program there is no reason why it should not be a part of the curriculum."

Board Makeup
Another reason listed by Carney-Nadeau (for preferring Stephenson) was that as members of a large school district with 9 townships' power to control by one community would be dissipated over the entire area. It is their opinion that the people of Carney-Nadeau would be better represented by a school board with a smaller area. At present 6 of the 7 members of the Stephenson School Board are from Stephenson and Daggett.

"Could Mellen, Cedarville and Carney-Nadeau, the three new districts asking for annexation to Stephenson, hope to be justly represented on the school board when only one or two new members are chosen at each election?"

"The Carney-Nadeau Board is urging immediate annexation to Stephenson so that the people of Carney-Nadeau will not have opportunity to vote for consolidation with Hermansville and Powers-Spalding... Powers-Spalding is not urging immediate consolidation; only asking opportunity to meet with citizens of Carney-Nadeau to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of both annexation and consolidation."

Start Opinion Survey:

Customers Asked Why They Shop In Escanaba

"What is the most important improvement that should be made in the Escanaba business district?"

This is one of the questions that will be asked of people who shop in Escanaba in a survey being conducted by Harland Bartholomew Associates, planning consultants retained by the City of Escanaba.

The goal is a comprehensive plan for the future growth of the city, and the project is supervised by the Escanaba Planning Commission.

Dave Kennedy, planner in charge of the Escanaba project, and Dan Coates, field representative, both of Harland Bartholomew Associates, are in Escanaba today in connection with the customer and employee opinion surveys.

Customer Opinion
The first phase in the study—a parking survey—has been reported by the consultants to the Planning Commission. This report included recommendations for the acquisition of two additional off-street parking areas in the downtown district.

Seven hundred and fifty questionnaires are being distributed today to merchants up and down Ludington St. in connection with the employee opinion survey. This questionnaire covers parking and shopping habits.

Next week the cooperating merchants will distribute to their customers the questionnaires covering opinions on the city's retail business district. The customers will receive them on Friday, June 10.

"We ask the shoppers who receive one of the questionnaires to help with the survey by filling it out promptly," said Kennedy. "All they need to do is answer the few simple questions, and place the questionnaire in the stamped and addressed envelope."

What They Think
Learning the attitudes of the customers—the people who spend their money in Escanaba—is considered a "voice of authority" in the survey. The opinions they express fit into the central business district over-all economic report which the planning consultants are making.

Some of the questions the customers will be asked: How often do you come to the Escanaba business district? What percentage of your total shopping is done in the business district, other commercial areas, other cities?

Why did you come to the business district?

Where did you last purchase the following items: Coat, suit, shoes?

If you purchased the items in another city, why?

What is your opinion of the Escanaba business district: Good, fair, poor?

What new business would you like to see in Escanaba?

What is the most important improvement that should be made in the Escanaba business district?

Customers are also asked to make comments and suggestions which might be helpful in the analysis of the Escanaba business district.

The results of the study will be reported to the Planning Commission in July, the consultants said.

Catholics Name Two To Board

Charles Wanic of Perronville ran unopposed from the district outside Escanaba and polled 3,391 votes.

Baribeau and Wanic will serve three year terms on the Holy Name Board, filling places vacated by Peter Breclaw and Victor Groos.

The election of officers for the 1966-67 school year will take place at the June meeting.

Winning The War

The great uncertainty in America about the war in South Viet Nam is reflected in our journals. The same week that brings a Saturday Evening Post article, "Why We Can Win in Viet Nam," by Joseph Alsop, brings "A View of Viet Nam" by Emmett John Hughes in Newsweek which says "The present hope of history for Viet Nam has never been more than a nation dealing with Peking much as Poland deals with Moscow."

Alsop, after 16 visits to Viet Nam since 1953, says that the reasons we fight in South Viet Nam appear fairly well understood (many Americans would not concede that much), but that the war itself is understood by very few. He proceeds to explain North Viet Nam's plot for conquest and declares "the Communists might manage an eventual victory — although I do not think they will. No one ever mentions the fairly desperate combat problems that now face the Viet Cong . . . The battlefield is where our own best hope of victory lies."

Hughes' opinions are apt to impress more Americans as setting forth the bare knuckles situation in Viet Nam. Hughes suggests that we can hardly win in Viet Nam even if we win the war there and nobody questions that we can do that if we are willing to spend enough American lives there and tie ourselves to a commitment that could go on bleeding America for years, to the great satisfaction of Red China.

Hughes went around the world, sampling foreign opinion to put Viet Nam in focus. Why, he asked, is the war blamed more on American militancy than on Communist obstinacy? Answer: The invaders from Hanoi are Vietnamese, not Americans from 10,000 miles away. "Your generals keep saying you are waging war on communism, yet Washington keeps saying it will negotiate with the communists. It is hard to understand how you can sincerely hold both views."

Hughes charges that Saigon reveals some deceptions attempted by some U. S. policymakers:

1. It isn't possible to respect the Ky regime as concerned with democracy or competent to govern.
2. It's no more believable for the U. S. to pretend that the communists are mere "bandits" surviving solely by "terror" than for us to pretend that our Viet Nam policy follows faithfully the free will of that troubled people.
3. It's utterly untrue to blame Viet Nam's governmental turmoil on mysterious national politics or a plot by Buddhist monks. Hughes says U. S. propagandists invented this fiction to explain away the near collapse there after we had announced that the war had turned the corner both militarily and politically.

France lost Viet Nam after military defeat. Her politicians were blamed for not supporting her military forces there. We have made the opposite error, suggests Hughes. He says we probably haven't extended ourselves there militarily the way the French did, but we have overextended ourselves politically.

"The American undertaking here — (unprecedented) and here alone — implies an intent profoundly different from defending free nationhood and repelling aggression. Behind the military shield it means educating a whole people to govern themselves when they have never done so . . . it means arousing a sturdy sense of nationality in a people who have never been a nation."

"Such a nearly delirious design would require among many remarkable things, one luxury above all: a vast amount of time. A wise and sympathetic statesman of Southeast Asia told me: 'You are going to leave Viet Nam. You are going to leave because the earth-bound politics of Viet Nam cannot be solved by the airborne cavalry of America.'"

If Saigon had free elections it would be on the phone to Hanoi in a week, but an American pullout isn't in prospect. America inched into the war in South Viet Nam, but it can't get out that way. Right now it's fighting to make communist infiltration unprofitable. And even though it hasn't won that war, as Alsop says, it has spoiled the communist hopes of an early victory.

The Doctor Says:

Take Sun In Moderation

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt

Photosensitivity is just a word to avoid the sun's rays but all long word to some people. To so the drugs mentioned. The best sunscreen preparations to apply locally are those that contain red veterinary penicillin (RVP) or para-aminobenzoic acid (PABA). The antihistamines used for allergic types of hypersensitivity are of no value and salves that contain antibiotics—griseofulvin, given for ringworm, and the tetracyclines; nalidixic acid, a urinary antiseptic; and sedatives of the phenothiazine group.

All such persons are made worse by taking such modern drugs as sulfa, including those used to treat diabetes; certain antibiotics—griseofulvin, given for ringworm, and the tetracyclines; nalidixic acid, a urinary antiseptic; and sedatives of the phenothiazine group.

The same effect, but to a lesser degree, may be caused by barbiturates, salicylates, estrogens, gold salts, quinine and procaine. Even such products as eau de cologne and perfumes may cause an exaggerated sunburn if they contain bergamot or citron oils.

Persons who have pellagra, (a vitamin deficiency disease), lupus erythematosus, porphyria, eczema or contact dermatitis must be careful not only

School Board Assn. Interest Rate Urging 'Get Tough' Cripples Aid On Teachers Policy

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Association of School Boards urged today a "get tough" policy against teachers who strike, impose sanctions against school boards or stage some form of walkout.

Walter Averill Jr., association president, specifically referred to Flint, where he said teachers have called for a walkout Thursday on a so-called "professional day."

Flint teachers and their school board have been conducting lengthy negotiations on a new salary contract.

He told a news conference that similar situations are coming to a head at Midland and Reese, and many other school districts such as Ecorse, North Dearborn Heights, Taylor and Melvindale "are not far behind."

Such sanctions and strikes are being urged in the larger school districts, he said, but are also sifting down to the smaller ones.

This year, for the first time, school boards are required to bargain collectively with teachers' labor organizations if a majority of the teachers certify the organization as their bargaining agent.

Representation Rattle

The Michigan Education Association and American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, have been battling each other for representation rights.

Although the amended bargaining act eliminates wholesale firings as a penalty for striking, other strict disciplinary action still is allowed along with some firing.

The state association urged school boards to adopt a resolution declaring that in the event of a strike by employees, "discipline up to and including demotion and discharge of striking employees be imposed."

In the event of a strike, the resolution said, the local board should seek relief through injunction from the courts.

Negotiations should be broken off with the labor organization having collective bargaining rights in the event of such a strike, the resolution declared.

Withheld Recommendations

It urged further that the names of teachers participating in such a strike be made a part of their permanent files. School boards also were asked not to recommend for employment any teachers who strike or place their district under sanction.

Averill said the association represents 623 of Michigan's some 1,100 school boards.

"If a board asks time to sit down and look at the demands made by teachers, we are accused of bargaining in bad faith," Averill said.

"Right now no board can say what it is going to have to spend next year because the Legislature has not yet passed the State School Aid Act."

Final action on state aid is due by June 10.

Kalamazoo, he said, was typical of a city which solved its problems because outside people were not called in.

Sanctions Equal Strikes

Sanctions, such as were called for by the Michigan Education Association against Flint, should be considered the same as strikes, he said.

State Political Candidates Vie For Labor Nod

LANSING (AP) — Gubernatorial and senatorial candidates fought for labor endorsements today at a special convention of the Michigan AFL-CIO.

Greatest interest at the meeting of about 800 union delegates centered around their balloting for Democratic U. S. Senate hopefuls G. Mennen Williams and Jerome Cavanagh.

That pair plus the five other announced candidates for the two top offices being contested this year each were allotted 20 minutes to address delegates. Questions were to follow.

The program was to begin at 1 p.m.

The other candidates listed were Republican Gov. George Romney, U. S. Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., Democratic gubernatorial candidates Zoltan Ferency and Paul Livingston, and Democratic Senate hopeful James L. Eisman.

Romney and Griffin are unopposed in the Aug. 2 primary and Ferency is a heavy favorite over Livingston.

Ann Landers Disaster Invariably Accepts Invitation

Dear Ann Landers: I am past 30, so please don't call me Tools or Lamb-Chop or any of your cute names.

For the past three years I have been employed as a bookkeeper by a good firm. I am in charge of the cash box, out of which I pay C.O.D.'s and other incidentals. The box contains $350 at all times — or vouchers which account for the missing money. I am responsible for that amount.

Almost every Friday I take $35 or $50 from the cash box to play bingo or bet on a ball game or a golf match or some other sporting event. I'm not only an educated bettor, but a lucky one. I usually win. When I lose I repay the cash box from my savings account.

Yesterday the boss called me in and told me he had heard I borrowed money from the cash box to place bets. At that very moment the cash box balanced perfectly because just that morning I had repaid the $50 I had borrowed on Friday.

I'm furious that he would criticize me since I am responsible for the cash box and if I want to borrow from it, it's my business, isn't it? Yes or no? — LOUISVILLE

Dear L: You have no right to borrow money from that box for a weekend, a day or even a minute. Why in the world don't you have a checking account, woman?

Almost every embezzler started out by "borrowing" from the company, just as you have been doing. Anyone who uses company money for his own purposes is inviting disaster — and disaster invariably accepts the invitation.

Dear Ann Landers: Last Friday night we had a couple here for dinner. I had never met either the man or his wife before. He was transferred here and works for the same firm that employs my husband.

They arrived about 7:00 P.M. and we had cocktails. They were congenial and I liked them both. After dinner my husband took out his guitar. I played the piano and we all sang. Around 11:00 my husband suggested that we show the movies of our trip to Hawaii. They were thrilled at the idea.

When the movies were finished it was midnight. My husband suggested that they sleep at our house rather than drive to the suburbs — about 45 minutes away.

When they accepted I almost fainted.

I had to change the sheets and iron a pair of pajamas for the man to sleep in — all this after midnight. I told my husband that he had a nerve asking guests to stay overnight without first checking with me. He says I have no spirit of adventure and that the unexpected things in life are the most fun.

Am I a dead-head as he insists? — VERONICA

Dear V.: I can think of things that are a lot more fun than changing sheets at midnight and ironing pajamas for people you met just that evening.

Your husband should not have asked them to stay, they should not have accepted. You say nothing of a hurricane, earthquake, blizzard, illness or too much liquor. You described them as "easy to know." If you ask me they are TOO easy to know. Cool it.

Flight Delayed

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — It was roundup time at Seattle-Tacoma airport.

A pony wandered across U. S. Highway 99 and ran full tilt onto the airport apron and taxiway.

Airport security officers, state patrolmen and firemen in four cars chased down the animal. One flight was delayed for one minute.

Chinese Hide Feeling

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Things are not always what they seem in Mao Tse-tung's Communist China.

This is the story of a young Communist "hero." He was a "progressive" and an activist. When the Reds called for slogans, he wrote the most and won prizes for writing the best.

When physical labor volunteers were called for, he volunteered first and won acclaim for working the hardest. He excelled in athletics.

He was at the head of his class in Maoist-Marxist doctrine. He was the Communist leader of his class. Whenever Communist student honor lists were read, his name led the rest.

This young Red "hero" had a hobby of pigeon raising. This was supposed to be of some military value. So the Communist school officials encouraged him to join a club for the promotion of pigeon raising and pigeon studies.

When the young "hero" joined a pigeon club, he met another student — a Communist "incorrigible." This "incorrigible" was a Catholic boy who refused to renounce his faith and subscribe to Communist doctrine. He did "poorly" in studies; his excellent work in mathematics and language was offset by his "poor" papers on political theory. This Catholic youth was also a pigeon raiser.

The two boys worked together a great deal and became friends. But they were careful never to talk politics.

Time went on. Last spring the Catholic boy asked permission to go to Hong Kong for the summer. His mother was seriously ill and he wanted to see her before she died. He assured the authorities he would be back 10 days before school opened in the fall.

(If the Catholic boy had been a Communist, the authorities likely would not have let him go. They would ask why he let love for his mother interfere with his work and his studies. They would likely have condemned him. But they didn't care if this "incorrigible" went.)

The Catholic boy put his pigeons in the care of his young Communist friend and went to Hong Kong.

No sooner had he arrived — within a matter of days, in fact — he received a letter from the Communist "hero."

The letter read in part: "I feel proud to know you because you represent real strength. It is easy to go with the tide and get ahead."

"But you were able to stand on your own — go against the current — which has won my deep admiration."

"Now you have left this living hell."

"For heaven's sake don't be stupid enough to come back. You don't know how I envy you where you are — enjoying freedom."

The Catholic boy didn't return.

Rent-A-Girl Is Not Bad Idea

By PHIL THOMAS
NEW YORK (AP) — There's a movie playing in town called "Rent-a-Girl."

Which isn't a bad idea. We have no idea what the movie is about, but its title could be a spur to the credit card economy.

Why not be able to rent a girl? And on credit. It might help your career if you could.

That's because so many of the giant corporations are becoming more and more interested in the personal lives of their executives. They're no longer content to know all they can just about the man, they also want to know all about his wife.

And, often, the man might miss a coveted push up the executive ladder because, even though he meets all the firm's requirements, his wife doesn't.

Suppose you've got the kind of wife who likes to stay home nights and read the collected works of Shakespeare rather than going out on the town. This is fine in its fashion. But suppose you've also got a boss who's a swinger, a real drink-it-up, laugh-it-up until five o'clock in the morning kind of a guy.

He also is the guy who decides whether you get the promotion. And he decides he wants to meet your wife over dinner and drinks before making a decision about you.

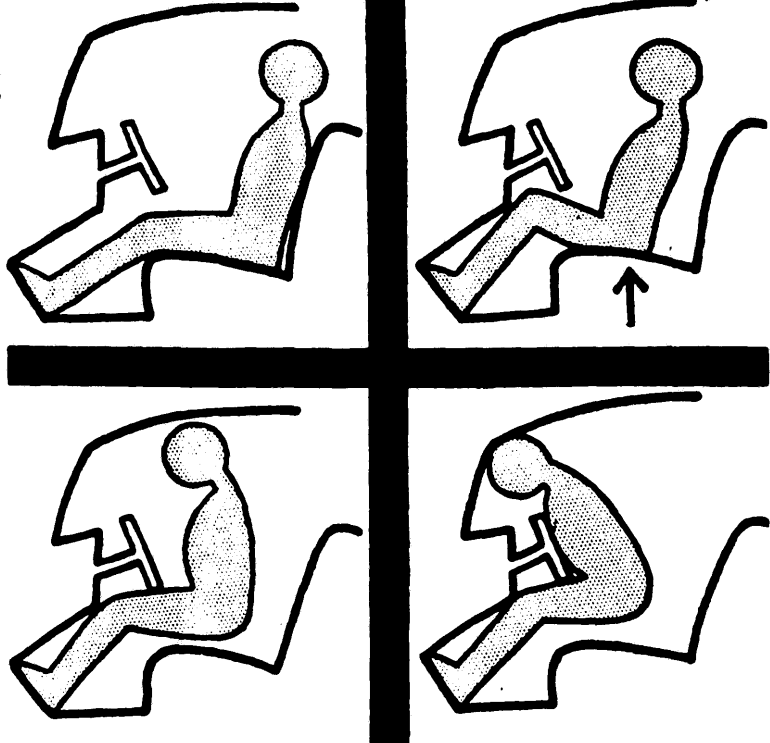

What do you do? You know your wife will hate him, and he'll hate her. Don't panic. Just call your friendly "rent-a-wife" dealer. He'll put the proper wife in the party seat. Show him your credit card (it might be expensive but you've got 30 days to pay) and he'll run your request through a computer. In less than a minute it will pick out just the right woman to impress your boss — a fast-drinking, quick-laughing, redhead who can show your leader how to Watusi without giving him a heart attack.

You can pick up your "wife" yourself or she can be delivered, and in plenty of time for you to fill her in on what the boss expects in the wife of a rising junior executive.

The nicest thing is that when the evening is done and the sun is coming up you just return your rented wife to the store and drive on home to your real one.

No muss, no fuss, no bother.

FASTEN YOUR

SEAT BELTS

WHAT CAN happen to the unsecured human body in an auto collision is illustrated simply but grimly in this series. A person in normal sitting position in a car moving at 40 m.p.h. is thrown forward at the moment of impact. Legs slam into the bottom edge of the dashboard with the possibility of both kneecaps fracturing. Pelvic injuries (arrow) may result. Forward motion stopped by the dashboard, the body is thrown upward so that head may strike car roof or windshield while chest smashes into the steering wheel. Prevention can be a simple matter—fasten seat belts.

State Using Federal Funds For Schooling

LANSING — Ninety-three per cent of the federal funds available to Michigan under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act have been allocated to local school districts. State Superintendent of Public Instruction Ira Polley told the State Board of Education that $40.5 million of the $43.5 million available to the state has been programmed since last October. An additional $1.4 million is expected to be allocated by June 30.

"We are especially proud of the high percentage of funds used by schools throughout the state for special programs for educationally deprived children," Polley said. Michigan received $34.7 million under this provision of the law. School districts in all 83 counties have programmed $33.1 million — 95.2 per cent — of these funds for 778 special programs.

Memorial Day Is 'Forerunner Of Things To Come'

EAST LANSING (AP) — A State Police traffic analyst has termed the 40 deaths in Michigan over the Memorial Day weekend "a forerunner of things to come."

"The mess of multiple death fatalities helped run up the total," State Police expert Orin Lucas reported.

The toll compared with 27 fatalities over the weekend last year and the high of 58 killed over the 1941 Memorial Day holiday.

Lucas noted that 25 of the 40 died in multiple death accidents. These included one crash killing four, three with three deaths each and six with two deaths each.

He said the holiday total probably still will go higher because of delayed accident reports and possible deaths among the injured.

"The same things that cause accidents day in and day out also cause them on holidays," Lucas said. "But if you make a mistake on a holiday, somebody else is more likely to be there."

Cold Weather Hexes Fishermen But Joy Looms

In the Escanaba and Gladstone areas very little fishing activity has been reported by the Conservation Department due to cold weather and rain, but some perch have been caught in Little Bay de Noc on worms and minnows. With bass season opening on June 1, activity should pick up in streams flowing into Lake Michigan. Officers are reporting good runs of bass in these streams. The Ford River looks especially promising.

In the Rapid River and Ensign areas the Sturgeon River has produced nice catches of brown trout in the 18 inch class. Camp Seven Lake has produced nice rainbow with many in the 15 inch class range. This area should also produce some nice bass fishing from the Bays of Lake Michigan and streams flowing into them.

In the Gwinn and Rock areas Little Lake is producing a few walleye on minnows and artificial lures. Johnson Lake is producing good catches of rainbow on worms and trolling with lures and night fishing with corn. The Escanaba River and Big West Branch of the Escanaba River are producing nice catches of brook, brown, and rainbow trout. Nice catches of brook trout being taken from the Sawmill Creek.

In the Munising and Chatham areas Mosquito and Minnecoma rivers continue fair to good for rainbow trout. Rumble Lake producing some fair catches of northern pike. Bar and Fish lakes are producing a few panfish and some northern pike.

The Laughing Whitefish is producing some fairly good catches of rainbow using spawn for bait. The Rock and AuTrain rivers; Johnson and Slapneck creeks are producing nice catches of brook trout on worms and flies. Good catches of Menominee are being reported off of the mouth of the Rock River with worms. Some walleye are being taken in AuTrain Lake and AuTrain River by use of plugs and live bait. AuTrain Basin is producing good catches of perch.

Fishing activity was generally slow throughout the week due to cold weather and changing temperatures. Fishing should pick up throughout the Escanaba District with warmer weather and with bass season opening.

Crystal Falls captured its first Upper Peninsula high school tennis championship over the Memorial Day weekend without winning either the singles or doubles crowns. The Trojans picked up 17½ team points to 17¼ for Stambaugh with Marquette third in the field of 13 schools with 10½ points. Roy Steinke of Kingsford won the singles title and Joe Gasperini and Bill LaRock of Stambaugh captured doubles honors. Escanaba finished sixth in the team standings with 7½ points and Holy Name was ninth with 6.

George Brunet, honored at ceremonies in Tiger Stadium before the California-Detroit game Sunday, came through with an impressive three-hit, 2-1 mound victory to make his Upper Peninsula fans happy. The Copper Country native whiffed eight batters and granted four walks in the game that drew a crowd of 52,315 fans. Brunet is now 2-2 for the season.

Michigan Tech staged its annual spring football intra-squad game at Houghton last week and Coach Bill Lucier was generally pleased with the overall performance of his Huskies. A standout was Mike Merlo, freshman quarterback from Detroit, who led the Whites to a 32-6 victory over the Blacks by tossing four touchdown passes. He connected on 14 of 18 attempts for 289 yards and was named most valuable player along with junior halfback Tom Comarich of Ontonagon who gained 60 yards in 11 carries and caught four aerials.

Dave Bush, deadeye senior guard on Coach Guss Lord's Stephenson basketball team, was honored as the most valuable player on the Eagle squad at the annual sports recognition banquet recently. Rodney Backman was named most valuable in track and Bob Nerat in football. The trio will have their names inscribed on the Carl Douglass Jr. memorial plaque which was donated to the school by the graduating class of 1956.

In spite of the extremely bad weather conditions at Newberry Saturday, the Holy Name Crusader golf team turned in an outstanding performance in winning the Upper Peninsula High School golf crown. The 337 stroke total was the lowest winning score in an Upper Peninsula finals meet since 1961 when Holy Name won with a 332 score. Last year's winning total was 347 with Escanaba and Ishpeming sharing the crown.

Two members of the team that captured the U. P. crown for Holy Name will be back in action again next year. Pete Ross is a freshman and Bill Pettier a junior. Joe Snow and Dave Delforge are seniors.

Senator Rookie Casanova Crosses Up Houk, Yanks

By The Associated Press

Casanova's trust with the Washington Senators may outlast that perfect marriage between Rahoul Houk and the New York Yankees.

Rookie Paul Casanova crossed up Houk and the Yankees Tuesday night with a three-run double pacing the Senators to a 5-1 victory over New York.

The 6-foot-4 catcher proved a perfect mate for left-hander Pete Richert, who beat the Yankees for the first time with a four-hitter and extended his current winning string to five.

The loss was the third for the punchless Yankees in their last four games and marked the fifth time they have dropped two straight since Houk replaced Johnny Keane as manager 3½ weeks ago.

Casanova, a 24-year-old Cuban who walked into the Senators' minor league camp at Pensacola, Fla., three years ago and asked for a job, was called up from the minors last month when injuries sidelined regular catchers John Orsino and Doug Camilli.

He appeared in his first game on May 7, the same day Houk returned to the Yankee dugout, and hit at a .300 clip for two weeks. He went hitless, however, from May 23 until the fourth inning of Tuesday night's game, when his double snapped a scoreless tie and wrecked a Houk strategy move.

Jim King singled with one out in the fourth for the first hit off Mel Stottlemyre and with two away, Dick Nen doubled. Houk then had Don Lock walked intentionally to get at Casanova.

The gambit backfired when Casanova ripped a liner inside the left field foul line, clearing the bases. The Yankees never caught up against Richert, who struck out eight for an American League-leading total of 82. Baltimore trampled Minnesota 14-5, Kansas City ambushed Detroit 7-1, Boston nipped Chicago 1-0 and Cleveland outlasted California 7-5 in 17 innings in other AL games.

In National League play San Francisco beat Cincinnati 5-3, Los Angeles whipped Atlanta 6-

2, St. Louis blanked Houston 3-0, Chicago edged Pittsburgh 2-1 and Philadelphia downed New York 6-4.

The Orioles rocked loser Camilo Pascual and three successors for 19 hits, including a three-run triple by Dave Johnson. Andy Etchebarren also drove in three runs with a homer and double.

Brooks Robinson doubled in two runs for the Orioles, boosting his league-leading RBI total to 42, while Luis Aparicio hit a two-run homer and Sam Bowers a two-run single.

Marichal Tired, Hurting But Notches 10th Victory

By The Associated Press

Juan Marichal was tired. His elbow was hurting. His control was off, and he gave up the astounding total of three walks. His slider and screwball weren't working.

He won. The high-kicking right-hander, despite the fatigue and ailing arm and off-form pitching, ran his perfect record to 10-0 Tuesday night in San Francisco's 5-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Marichal managed to double home the Giants' first two runs, strike out 10, blank the Reds through six innings, and record his ninth complete game in 11 starts. But he was tagged for two homers by Leo Cardenas, in the seventh and ninth, and his earned run average zoomed from 0.59 to 0.80.

As for his three walks, compared to eight in his previous 92 innings this season, two came in succession in the fourth inning and loaded the bases.

"I tried various pitches, but I couldn't get the plate in that inning," he commented. "I don't think rookie pitchers do as bad as I did sometime."

Marichal weathered that jam neatly — by striking out John Edwards. And in the next inning, he clipped loser Sammy Ellis for the two-run double and scored himself on Tito Fuentes' single. Jim Hart made it 4-0 with a homer in the seventh, giving Marichal the edge he needed to survive Cardenas' late-game slugging.

By winning the Giants kept their National League lead at 2½ games over the Los Angeles Dodgers, who made it seven victories in their last eight games with a 6-2 decision over Atlanta.

Elsewhere in the NL — St. Louis won its fourth straight, beating Houston 3-0 behind the five-hit pitching of Ray Washburn and Hal Woodeshick. Bill White led Philadelphia over the New York Mets 6-4, and the Chicago Cubs nipped Pittsburgh 2-1.

In the American League — Cleveland trimmed California 7-5 in 17 innings. Washington knocked off the New York Yankees 5-1, Kansas City beat Detroit 7-1, Boston shaded Chicago 1-0 and Baltimore crushed Minnesota 14-5.

Lou Johnson's triple and Al Ferrara's two-run double sparked the Dodgers to a 3-0 first-inning lead over the Braves. Pitcher Claude Osteen homered in the fourth, but the Los Angeles southpaw left in the seventh with a blister in his pitching hand and Phil Regan finished.

Washburn allowed the Astros three hits before tiring and coming out in the sixth inning, and Woodeshick gave up two more. The Cards got their three runs in the fifth after two outs. Bob Tolson singled in the first run and scored all the way from first — behind Lou Brock — on Curt Flood's looping single to center.

White broke a 4-4 tie between the Phils and Mets with a fifth-inning homer, then drove in another Philadelphia run in the ninth with a single — his third hit of the game. Ray Herbert was the winner, going 6 1-3 in relief. Dick Stuart and Johnny Lewis hit Met homers.

The Cubs netted both their runs off Pirate lefty Bob Veale in the fifth. Chicago pitcher Ernie Broglio started the rally with a double, then took third on a wild pitch. Adolfo Phillips was hit by a pitch. Joe Amalfitano's fly cashed in Broglio. Phillips stole second and Ron Santo stroked a run-scoring single.

The field at Compton includes only one man, 29-year-old Jim Grelle, with a prime chance of beating Ryun. Dyrrol Burleson and Kipchoke Keino won't be on hand. Grelle and Ryun have been inches apart many times. Grelle is the last man to beat Ryun — last Aug. 1 at Kiev, Russia.

"Grelle won't set the pace and Jim doesn't want to," said Bob Timmons, Kansas coach. "Jim will set the pace if he has to, for a chance at a quality time. Eventually, he's going to have to face up to this necessity. He might do it Saturday."

Ryun holds the American citizens record of 3:55.3, set at the National AAU in San Diego last year. He beat Peter Snell of New Zealand, ex-world record holder.

Hansen is suffering from a ruptured spinal disc and must undergo surgery, according to Dr. Joseph Coyle, team physician.

Hansen, 28, injured his left ankle opening day and his leg grew progressively more painful as he continued to play. On May 14 he left the Sox lineup and was placed on the emergency disabled list.

Rookie Lee Elia was recalled from Indianapolis to replace the lanky veteran whose average had dipped to .176 for 23 games. The disclosure of the injury stunned the Sox but didn't come as a complete surprise.

"We had some idea Ron's injury might be of a serious nature," said General Manager Ed Short. "But we wanted to make sure before making any announcement."

Short said Elia was brought up to help utility man Al Weis at the position. Short also said that was the reason the Sox grabbed infielder Wayne Causey from Kansas City for outfielder Danny Cater last weekend.

"Cause, Elia and Weis can play shortstop," said Short, who added he wasn't counting on any deals to help the club.

Ryun May Break World Mile Mark

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Jim Ryun, the fabulous 19-year-old Kansas freshman, is the prime candidate to become the first American to smash the world mile record since Glenn Cunningham of Kansas did it 32 years ago.

Ryun might do it this Saturday at the Compton, Calif., Invitational. He might do it June 26 at the National AAU at Randall's Island, in New York, or he might have to wait a year or two, but most track experts agree it's coming.

Someone must set a fast pace if the world record is to go. In setting his world mark of 3:53.6 last year, Michael Jazy of France was paced to a 1:56.5 half mile by his countryman, Jean Wadoux. At three quarters, Jazy was on his own at 2:57.4.

Players Begin Registering New Junior Softball League To Be Formed

Registration for the new junior softball program will begin today, it was announced by the City Recreation Department. Blanks are available at Memorial Field in the evenings or at the home of Paul Vardigan, 1704 S. 8th Ave., at any time.

Boys 13 years of age and older are eligible to participate in the program and present plans include the formation of a four team league which will be known as the National Softball League. Games will be played during the week at Royce Park and Memorial Field as preliminaries to American League softball games. There will also be opportunities to play under the lights later in the season. Uniforms will be provided as they are turned in by senior softball players who are no longer active.

Teams will be coached by active members of the Escanaba Softball Association with special emphasis on pitching instruction. Mound artists of the past and present have offered their services to develop a new crop of hurlers in an effort to bolster a sagging adult softball program. Most boys are able to make the switch from baseball to softball without any difficulty except in the pitching department.

Arrangements will also be made for the new junior softball teams to play out-of-town games against junior teams of other cities in the Upper Peninsula.

The deadline for registration has been set for June 15 with hopes of beginning official league play on June 20. The season will end with a tournament during the first week of August.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — If Kansas City Manager Al Dark was losing sleep over the puny team average fell to .205.

White Sox Lose Ron For Season

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox, struggling to get back into the first division, saw their pennant hopes all but vanish Tuesday when they learned shortstop Ron Hansen will be out for the season.

Hansen is suffering from a ruptured spinal disc and must undergo surgery, according to Dr. Joseph Coyle, team physician.

"Cause, Elia and Weis can play shortstop," said Short, who added he wasn't counting on any deals to help the club.

Hansen is suffering from a ruptured spinal disc and must undergo surgery, according to Dr. Joseph Coyle, team physician.

Hansen, 28, injured his left ankle opening day and his leg grew progressively more painful as he continued to play. On May 14 he left the Sox lineup and was placed on the emergency disabled list.

Rookie Lee Elia was recalled from Indianapolis to replace the lanky veteran whose average had dipped to .176 for 23 games. The disclosure of the injury stunned the Sox but didn't come as a complete surprise.

"We had some idea Ron's injury might be of a serious nature," said General Manager Ed Short. "But we wanted to make sure before making any announcement."

St. Francis Center Blessing Planned With Graduation

Blessing of the cornerstone of the $400,000 parish center of St. Francis de Sales church is scheduled at 7:30 p. m., Friday in conjunction with graduation exercises for the 33-member class of the school.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. F. M. Scheringer will bless the stone for the new parish center with school. The class is the last to complete studies in the old St. Francis de Sales school, built in 1914.

Local business firms won the three basic building contracts and began work on the center a year ago. An elementary school for eight grades, a parish library, conference room with capacity for 50, principal's office, faculty lounge, large gym-auditorium with stage facilities and a kitchen equipped to serve hot lunch and parish dinners are included.

Carpeted class rooms, audio-visual hook-ups in each room, boys and girls locker rooms and a school library will be provided. The new center is expected to be completed in time for opening of school in September. The completed structure will be blessed by Most Rev. Thomas L. Noa, bishop of the diocese in fall.

The cornerstone ceremony precedes graduation exercises in the church. The class will attend Mass and receive Holy Communion in the morning. After the cornerstone ceremony, the class will hear an address by Edwin Wuehle and receive awards and diplomas from the pastor. Distribution of Communion and benediction are scheduled.

Khrushchev Life
Quiet, Recovered
From Illnesses

MOSCOW (AP) — Nina Khrushchev says she and Nikita are leading a quiet life in the country and the ousted Soviet leader spends a lot of time reading and walking.

Three British newsmen ran into Mrs. Khrushchev at Moscow's Sheremetyevo Airport where she was saying goodbye to a niece going to Cuba. She gave the first authoritative account of Khrushchev's life in many months.

Khrushchev, 72, was replaced in October 1964, pensioned and given a villa outside Moscow. He has not been seen by Westerners in more than a year.

Mrs. Khrushchev confirmed reports that her husband had been through a long siege of kidney trouble but said he made "an astonishing recovery."

"He was in the hospital twice, but he has fully recovered and is fit and well," she said.

"We live quietly these days. Our old friends come to see us from time to time. And we have our family out of course."

Mrs. Khrushchev, who is 66, talked readily in English and seemed to enjoy the encounter with the newsmen. She looked well and somewhat thinner.

Sultan, A Camel
Really Henpecked

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sultan, a Dromedary camel, is henpecked.

The camel of the one-hump variety led an unobtrusive life in his bachelor quarters at the Philadelphia Children's Zoo until three weeks ago when his pad was taken over by a three-pound Bantam hen. The hen decided it was just the place she needed to hatch her family.

Zoo officials said she squawked and attacked Sultan, who stands five and one-half feet tall, every time he tried to move back in.

Zoo Supervisor William J. Maloney said the hen held Sultan at bay until Monday, when she hatched six chicks and walked them out.

At various times, the Capitol at Washington has been used as a hospital, military cafeteria, church, blacksmith shop and bakery.

In Memoriam

St. Cyr

In loving memory of Deborah Anne who passed away one year ago May 31, 1965.

Do not ask us if we miss her. For there's such a vacant place. Or we think we hear her footsteps. Or see her smiling face. For she left us broken hearted. Friends may think the wound is healed. But they so little know the sorrow That is in our hearts concealed.

THE NEW STATE BANK of Escanaba building is expected to look like this at 112 N. 11th St. when completed later this year. Construction will begin next Monday after ground breaking ceremonies at 7:30 p. m. Friday.

New State Bank Ground Breaking Planned Friday

Ground breaking ceremonies for the new State Bank of Escanaba at 112 N. 11th St. will be held at 7 p. m. Friday, Forest Henslee, executive vice president, announced today.

Henslee said construction will begin next Monday with completion scheduled by the end of the year.

The building, which will replace the present building at 1108 Ludington, has been planned by the Etl Co., Toledo, O., bank building specialists. Construction work will be done by local firms under the supervision of the Etl Co. staff.

Architects are Nickerson & Ross, Toledo.

Planned 3 Years
The new bank building, which has been in the planning stage for about three years, will include 4,000 square feet of floor space on the main banking floor and 2,000 square feet of space in the basement.

There will be two drive-in banking windows, eight teller stations, four private offices for bank officers, and parking for 46 cars. The new building will also provide double the current number of safety deposit boxes, and three private rooms for customers to examine safety deposit boxes.

It will be completely air-conditioned. The basement will house bookkeeping facilities and include an employees lounge.

"The new building will give us the most modern, up-to-date banking facilities available," said Henslee.

Organized in 1904

"This is not a branch bank," Henslee added. "It will be a complete new facility. When the move is completed, our present building will be sold."

The State Savings Bank of Escanaba was organized Nov. 21, 1904, and moved into its present building in 1914. On Jan. 11, 1944, the bank's name was changed to the State Bank of Escanaba.

Current bank officers are Charles W. Stoll, president; Harold G. Groos, vice president; Henslee, executive vice president; Richard Pariso, vice president and cashier; Arthur Arch, assistant cashier; Louise Roberge, assistant cashier; Raymond Sundquist, assistant cashier, and Dale Heidenreich, auditor.

Members of the Board of Directors are Stoll, Groos, John Fawcett, Arthur Goulais, John Lemmer, C. Gust Peterson, John Walsh and Carl Wick-

'Bama Negroes Win In Runoff

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — The first Negro nominated for sheriff in Alabama since Reconstruction days held out a jubilant promise today of fair and efficient law enforcement.

Despite a split in the ranks of Negro voters, Lucius A. Amerson won the Democratic nomination in Macon County Tuesday in a runoff primary in which three other Negro candidates triumphed over white opponents.

In the remaining 22 white vs. Negro contests which highlighted an otherwise uneventful statewide party election, the Negro candidates went down to defeat, including one of the state's best known civil rights attorneys, Fred D. Gray.

Significantly, none of the eight Negroes who sought seats in the legislature was successful. Thus until there is a vacancy or until a new legislature is chosen in 1970, the state's lawmaking assembly will be composed of 141 white members.

Amerson, 32, a former postal employee who gave up his job to campaign for sheriff, faces possible Republican opposition in the November general election. But there appears to be little likelihood that another candidate would succeed where the incumbent sheriff, Hervey Sadler, failed.

New Bill Would End Bridge Toll

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to permit use of interstate highway funds to retire bonds used to finance construction of any toll bridge, tunnel or road on any part of the interstate system was introduced Tuesday by Rep. Raymond Clevenger, D-Mich.

He said the bill, if passed, would allow Michigan to use interstate funds to free the Mackinac Bridge in Michigan. "Congress must now provide additional funds to complete the planned interstate system," Clevenger said. "My bill will permit the system to be a free system. There is no reason why the interstate system should be part toll and part free."

The Mackinac Bridge was opened to traffic in 1957. The cost was an estimated $100 million and most of the bonds are still outstanding, a Clevenger aide said.

Demos Revive War Of Faces

LANSING (AP) — Two Senate Democrats are pushing for a pair of election law changes that could hurt Republicans in November.

They tried their plans out for size Tuesday night, won a preliminary skirmish and then retreated to wait for a better opportunity in the closing two weeks of the Legislature.

Sen. Edward Robinson, D-Dearborn, wants the U.S. Senate race to head the ballot this year instead of the gubernatorial contest.

And Sen. Jerome Hart, D-Saginaw, wants to rule out use of any living person on political party vignettes which appear on ballots.

Republican Gov. George Romney, favored to win a third term, would be the GOP ticket leader under the present ballot law, which places the gubernatorial race first.

"If you don't have a governor candidate who can lead your ticket, I'm sorry," Chided Senate Republican Leader Emil Lockwood.

The expected Democratic candidate is state chairman Zolton Perency, who is not viewed by some legislative Democrats as the ideal leader. The Democratic Senate candidate will be Gov. G. Mennen Williams or Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, viewed as potentially better ticket leaders if the Senate race topped the ballot.

The Hart plan would knock Romney's likeness off the GOP vignette. It was added earlier this year in place of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Cuban Exiles To Cooperate

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A newly formed Cuban exile group says it took part in last weekend's unsuccessful attempt to infiltrate Cuba and plans to step up its activities against the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The Cuban Exile Representation — RECE — announced Tuesday it has joined with two anti-Castro groups as a coordinated movement seemed to be gathering momentum among the divided exile front.

Intensive negotiations were reported for a wide-ranging alliance that would include at least four other militant anti-Castro groups.

"Instead of going it alone, exile groups now are going to coordinate efforts," said RECE spokesman Ernesto Freyre. "Together we can accomplish our aim."

"Losing one battle does not mean you have lost the war," he said of the six anti-Castro revolutionaries who attempted to infiltrate Cuba by launch last weekend. Two were killed, two were wounded and captured and two are presumed drowned.

Freyre and other spokesmen for the new federation — composed of RECE, Commandos 1 and a faction of the 30th of November Movement — refused to discuss launching sites or any specifics of the weekend raid.

Mich Con Chief Declares:

No Gas Shortage Possible

There is no danger that Michigan natural gas users will run out of gas supplies, a gas company executive said today, taking issue with a University of Michigan professor who predicted a gas shortage.

"There are now about 285 trillion cubic feet of proven gas reserves in the United States," said Hugh C. Daly, executive vice president of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. "And each year we are discovering new gas fields which add to our reserves more gas than we are taking annually from existing fields."

Daly's statement was provoked by a published statement from Associate Professor Ross J. Wilhelm of the University of Michigan Graduate School of Business Administration. Professor Wilhelm, attacking federal regulation of natural gas producers, predicted a "critical shortage" of gas within 10 years unless regulatory practices are relaxed, and drilling of new wells encouraged.

Daly said: "Professor Wilhelm was apparently stating the complaint of producing companies against the results of the U. S. Supreme Court decision in the Phillips Petroleum case, issued in 1956. In that decision, the court ruled, in effect, that the federal government should regulate the prices paid for gas at the wellhead, as well as prices charged by interstate pipelines to distributing utilities like Michigan Consolidated. Professor Wilhelm feels that this is discouraging discovery of new gas supplies."

Motel's Guests Take Mattress

BOYNE FALLS (AP) — Motel operator William Grote discovered after a check of his establishment Sunday that unregistered visitors had made off with a double bed and mattress from one unit. Bedclothing was left behind.

Pick Trout Off Lawns In Park

CRANBROOK, B.C. (AP) — It rained so hard in Cranbrook Monday you could pick up fish from the lawn in a downtown park.

An inch of rain in less than an hour backed an underground river through a storm sewer into the park. With the river came dozens of trout, some of them 12 inches long. Children scooped them up and took them home for dinner.

"He may have a point, but when he goes on to predict a gas shortage, he indulges in gross exaggeration. There is no danger of a shortage of gas."

Daly explained that the "proven reserves" of 285 trillion cubic feet include only those gas reserves which have been tested by drilling and are known as to location and quantity. In addition, he said, the latest report of the American Gas Association estimates that the United States has nearly 630 trillion cubic feet of reserves in the ground which are yet to be tapped with wells.

"This makes a total of 915 trillion cubic feet," he said. "Last year we took out of the ground about 17 trillion cubic feet."

"There is plenty of gas in the ground, and the argument over producers' prices is not going to keep the gas industry from getting it out," Daly said. "If the method of regulation is wrong, the regulations will obviously be changed to meet the needs of the people."

Daly said the University of Michigan itself is one of Michigan Consolidated's largest customers, using gas to heat most of its buildings.

"They are well aware," he said, "that there is no danger of their supply being cut off."

"The fact that Michigan Consolidated is investing nearly $40½ million this year alone to expand its facilities ought to assure both home owners and industry that this company expects to be in the business of distributing gas for a long time. Our expansion plans are based on firm knowledge that an ample supply of natural gas is available for all present and future customers."
